BIO WASTE MANAGEMENT

Food waste Generated in the hostel and canteens is directed to a nearby piggery. This practice not only helps in managing food waste effectively but also provides nourishment for domestic animals. By diverting food waste to the farm, we contribute to the local agricultural economy and minimize the volume of waste sent to landfills. This approach also supports our broader goal of reducing the institution's environmental impact. We have an MOU with Valerian Pinto to collect the waste food from our college hostel canteen.

Our which includes organic materials such as dry leaves, flowers, fruit peels, and vegetable scraps. Green dry leaves that fall from the trees are collected from the students weekly once. Furthermore, we utilize this in vermicomposting, which supports sustainable agriculture and contributes to the health of our campus greenery. By recycling bio-waste in this manner, we reduce the amount of waste that ends up in landfills and enhance our campus's ecological footprint.

SOLID WASTE MANAGEMENT

To manage solid waste effectively, our institution has established a comprehensive system for the collection and disposal of waste materials generated across the campus. This includes waste from classrooms, office areas, and common spaces. We collect items such as paper, food remnants, dust, and other non-organic waste. All solid waste is directed to a designated waste management dump yard. This centralized location ensures that waste is gathered in an organized manner and prevents littering on the premises. Additionally, strategically placed dustbins throughout the campus facilitate easy disposal and segregation of waste by students, staff and visitors.

E-Waste Management

The management of electronic waste (e-waste) is another critical aspect of our waste management policy. E-waste includes items such as cables, keyboards, chips, pen drives, CDs, batteries, bulbs and other electronic-related materials. These materials are collected in a designated transparent container specifically for e-waste. Once collected, the e-waste is handed over to a certified agency specializing in the scientific disposal and recycling of electronic materials. This process ensures that e-waste is handled in an environmentally responsible manner, reducing the risk of hazardous substances contaminating the environment. We have an MOU in association with the Anubhuti Welfare Foundation to collect e-waste from our college campus and dispose of it systematically.
